

Credit Linked Note in EUR on LafargeHolcim Ltd

Coupon: 1.55% p.a.

PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

Credit Linked Notes (hereinafter also referred to as structured products with a reference bond) additionally refer to a reference bond compared to traditional Floored Floater, in that certain events in respect of the reference bond (default or redemption event) may have a negative impact on the value and result in an early redemption (see "Early redemption or determination of a default or redemption event"). Provided that no default or redemption event occurs in respect of the reference bond, the function of this product corresponds to those of a fixed-interest money market investment (Vontobel Note) with a fixed term to maturity, fixed coupons, and redemption at nominal value.

In Switzerland, these financial instruments are considered structured products. They are not collective investment schemes within the meaning of the Swiss Federal Act on Collective Investment Schemes (CISA), and are therefore not subject to the regulations of the CISA or the supervision of the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority FINMA. The investors bear the issuer's or the guarantor's credit risk.

Special note regarding risks	Structured products with a reference bond are complex financial products. Its distinctive feature consists in the fact that, with the reference bond, the investor assumes an additional risk on top of the traditional risks, such as market and currency risks as well as the risk of the structured product issuer defaulting. This allows a comparatively higher potential yield. Investors are advised to read in detail all risk notes (see among other things "Significant risks for investors" below) and seek expert advice on the risks associated with the specific product before investing in structured products with a reference bond.

Title	The structured products are issued in the form of non-certificated book-entry securities of the issuer. No certificates, no printing of bonds.
Reference bond monitoring	Initial fixing until redemption date
Early redemption or determination of a default or redemption event	An early redemption arises if the Calculation Agent determines the existence of a default event or a redemption event (for details, see "Default event" and "Redemption event" below) as regards the reference bond, to which it is entitled during the reference bond monitoring at its sole discretion. When determining the existence of a default event or redemption event as regards the reference bond by the Calculation Agent <ul style="list-style-type: none"> i no further payments are made from the structured product from this moment in time; ii the issuer publishes a default or redemption event as regards the reference bond within 5 bank business days; iii the Calculation Agent determines the percentage redemption factor, by setting, as soon as practical and at its own discretion while taking into account any market practices, e.g. results of an auction run by ISDA or by any company acting on behalf of International Swaps and Derivatives Association ("ISDA"), or any other determination regarding the market value made by ISDA, the share in the nominal value of the reference bond that corresponds to the market value of the reference bond after occurrence of the default or redemption event. Otherwise, the Calculation Agent will determine the market value of the Reference Bond based upon quotations obtained. The Calculation Agent will publish the percentage Redemption Factor, determined as described before in accordance with the relevant share in the nominal value of the Reference Bond, as soon as possible; iv. the structured product is redeemed on the cash redemption date at the rate of the liquidation amount (as defined below). Such a redemption is made regardless of whether the corresponding default or redemption event as regards the reference bond continues to exist after its determination by the calculation agent. The denomination of the reference bond's currency may differ from the structured product's reference currency without having any impact on the potential liquidation or redemption amount of the structured product in its reference currency, i.e. the investor bears no exchange rate risk from the reference bond.
Default event	Every (default) event determined by the Calculation Agent at its sole discretion, which may result in the early maturity of the reference bond under the terms of the reference bond, such as a bankruptcy or insolvency notice of the reference bond issuer, default of payment or restructuring of the reference bond, etc.
Redemption event	Every partial or full redemption of the reference bond by the reference bond issuer determined by the Calculation Agent at its sole discretion, for instance through exercising a redemption option or a redemption right, etc.
Liquidation amount	The Liquidation Amount denoted in the Reference Currency is determined by the Calculation Agent at its sole discretion and equals, subject to a minimum of zero, (i) the nominal value, multiplied by the percentage Redemption Factor established by the Calculation Agent in accordance with the above terms, (ii) minus the Unwind Costs in respect of the Day when the Default Event is determined. The Calculation Agent endeavors to determine the liquidation amount as quickly as possible and in order to preserve the best interests of the investor.
Unwind Costs	The Calculation Agent determines in respect of each Structured Product an amount, subject to a minimum of zero, equal to the sum of (without duplication) all costs, expenses (including break funding charges and loss of funding, which, for the avoidance of doubt, represents the loss of future interest amounts to be received under the funding arrangement(s) entered into in relation to the Structured Products), tax and duties incurred directly or indirectly by the Issuer or any of its affiliates in relation to the occurrence of a Default Event and the related partial or total termination, settlement or re-establishment of any hedge position, such amount to be apportioned pro rata amongst the outstanding Structured Products.

PROSPECTS OF PROFIT AND LOSSES

Structured products based on a reference bond:

Investors should be aware that the reference bond may have an adverse impact on the value of structured products with a reference bond, in that when a default or redemption event occurs in respect of the reference bond the structured products are redeemed early. The liquidation amount redeemed to the investor after determining or the occurrence of such a default or redemption event may be significantly lower than the issue price or, in extreme cases, even zero. This may also apply if a comparable structured product, but which has no dependence on a reference bond, has a significantly higher market value.

Under the conditions that no default or redemption event has occurred as regards the reference bond, the profit and loss outlook of Credit Linked Notes with reference bond is as follows:

Credit linked notes provide the opportunity to benefit from a relatively high coupon payment. The capital protection of the issuer, which is conditional on the non-occurrence of a default event of in the currency bond, guarantees the redemption of 100% of the nominal value in the reference currency. The maximum profit possible is limited to the coupon. The risk of a credit linked note is linked to the fact that the capital protection is guaranteed at the end of maturity only. During the term the value can fall below the redemption price.

Maximum gain: Cap at coupon

Maximum loss: Total loss in the occurrence of a credit event

SIGNIFICANT RISKS FOR INVESTORS

Risks in connection with the reference bond

Structured products with a reference bond are very sophisticated and complex financial products, which require a special understanding of the product and the risk. Investors are strongly advised to obtain information on investing in structured products with a reference bond by seeking expert advice on the risks associated with the specific product.

The value of this investment and the repayment depends, amongst other things, predominantly on the reference bond and indirectly on the reference bond issuer. Structured products with a reference bond are neither guaranteed by the reference bond issuer nor are they necessarily secured with liabilities of the reference bond issuer. If the Calculation Agent determines, in accordance with the product terms, a default or redemption event at its own discretion as regards the reference bond, the holders of the structured products with a reference bond have no right of recourse against the reference bond issuer as regards any loss, which they sustain due to the liquidation amount redeemed to them (which may be significantly lower than the issue price or, in extreme cases, even zero). After determination of a default or redemption event as regards the reference bond issuer by the Calculation Agent, the investors do not stand to benefit from any positive performance (as regards) the relevant reference bond issuer. In particular, the consequences of determination of a default or redemption event by the Calculation Agent as specified in the product terms cannot be reversed. As such, investors do not participate, i.e. in the event of restructuring as an example of a default event, in the corresponding restructuring process and are not entitled to appeal against elements of the restructuring process. For this reason, an investment in structured products with a reference bond may be associated with a higher risk than a direct investment in the liabilities of the reference bond issuer. If circumstances arise or an event occurs, which has/have a negative impact on the creditworthiness or credit rating of the reference bond issuer, but which do/does not result in the occurrence of a default or redemption event, the price of the structured products with a reference bond may fall. As a result, investors who sell their structured products with a reference bond at this time may sustain a significant loss of their capital invested.

Currency risks

If the underlying or underlyings is/are denominated in a currency other than the product's reference currency, investors should bear in mind that this may involve risks due to fluctuating exchange rates and that the risk of loss does not only depend on the performance of the underlying(s) but also on any unfavourable performance of the other currency or currencies. This does not apply for currency-hedged products (quanto structure).

Market risks

The general market performance of securities is dependent in particular on the development of the capital markets which, for their part, are influenced by the general global economic situation as well as by the economic and political framework conditions in the respective countries (so-called market risk). Changes to market prices such as interest rates, commodity prices or corresponding volatilities may have a negative effect on the valuation of the underlying(s) or the structured product. There is also the risk of market disruptions (such as trading or stock market interruptions or discontinuation of trading) or other unforeseeable occurrences concerning the respective underlyings and/or their stock exchanges or markets taking place during the term or upon maturity of the structured products. Such occurrences can have an effect on the time of redemption and/or on the value of the structured products.

In the event of trading restrictions, sanctions and similar occurrences, the issuer is entitled, for the purpose of calculating the value of the structured product, to include at its own discretion the underlying instruments at their most recently traded price, at a fair value to be established at its sole discretion or indeed as worthless, and/or additionally to suspend pricing in the structured product or liquidate the structured product prematurely.

Secondary market risks

Under normal market conditions, the issuer or the lead manager intend to post bid- and ask-prices on a regular basis. However, neither the issuer nor the lead manager is under any obligation with respect to investors to provide such bid- and ask-prices for specific order or securities volumes, and there is no guarantee of a specific liquidity or of a specific spread (i.e. the difference between bid- and ask-prices), for which reason investors cannot rely on being able to purchase or sell the structured products on a specific date or at a specific price.

Issuer risk

The value of structured products may depend not only on the performance of the underlying(s), but also on the creditworthiness of the issuer/guarantor, which may change during the term of the structured product. The investor is exposed to the risk of default of the issuer/guarantor. For further information on the rating of Vontobel Holding AG or Bank Vontobel AG, please see the issuance programme.

Classification

In Switzerland, these financial instruments are considered structured products. They are not collective investment schemes within the meaning of the Swiss Federal Act on Collective Investment Schemes (CISA), and are therefore not subject to the regulations of the CISA or the supervision of the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority FINMA.
